Mitts Milavec Wins Dismissal Action for Gap International in Domain Name Lawsuit

Philadelphia, PA - September 30, 2009 – Mitts Milavec, LLC, a dynamic law firm headquartered in Philadelphia, has announced that the Superior Court of California has entered a Judgment for Dismissal in favor of Mitts Milavec client Gap International, Inc. and Anthony Templer d/b/a Atanda Web Presence Services against Plaintiff Gerard Angé.

The litigation arose out of a dispute over the ownership of the domain name gapinternational.com. Despite the fact that Mitts Milavec client Gap International purchased the domain name from the record owner, the Plaintiff claimed that the domain name belonged to him and that he and/or his entities had sustained damages in excess of $50 million dollars. After a four year battle, including extensive discovery, Mitts Milavec won a dismissal of all counts of the plaintiff's complaint.

“Gap International came to us because they knew the allegations against them were baseless,” said Maurice Mitts, partner, Mitts Milavec, LLC. “We were able to secure a positive outcome for our client because of our ability to demonstrate clearly and accurately that the suit against Gap International was without merit. Our client is pleased with the Judgment to Dismiss.”

The suit against Philadelphia-based Gap International was filed in Alameda County, California and presided by Superior Court Judge John M. True III.

The Mitts Milavec team was led by co-founding partner Maurice Mitts and included assistance from partner Carolyn Plump, Rebecca Emerson, and local counsel support from Mia S. Blackler of Buchalter Nemer PC.
